

MBA-617 : Managing Reward Systems

The study of attracting, motivating and retaining employees through the appropriate mix of compensation and benefits. Topics include group and individual incentive plans, determining wage levels and structure, developing pension plans and legal considerations in the administration of compensation and benefits on both the national and international levels.

Credits 3

Instructional Method

LEC

Semester Offered

Summer