

CS-110 : Ethics & Information Technology

Discussion of the ethical and legal issues created by the introduction of information technology into every day life. Codes of ethics for computer users. Topics may include, but are not limited to, information ownership, individual privacy, computer crime, communications and freedom of expression, encryption and security.

Credits 1

Instructional Method

LEC

Semester Offered

Fall

Spring